

CONTINUUM CONSULTING

Although Continuum® is an open-source and freely available software, sometimes clients do not have the time and/or resources necessary to learn new software or run analyses. Some clients may need further assistance as they become more familiar with the tool. For these clients, One Energy Analytics's Renewable Energy Services offers consulting services. We take on the modeling and deliver insightful summary reports of the modeling results. We also provide one-on-one guidance and will answer any software-related questions.
